Excerpt: . . . for the statement that the so-called mental forms, Time and Space, are the B of our alphabet; that the A of our alphabet, by which the B becomes possible, is the consciousness of likeness and unlikeness; and that the C, D, F, and c. --the intuitions and conceptions presented and represented in Time and Space--are directly dependent on this consciousness of likeness and unlikeness, as well as indirectly dependent on it, through the derivative forms Time and Space. The only true form, whether of Intuition, or of Understanding, or of Reason, is the consciousness of likeness and unlikeness; which is common to all acts of intelligence whatever. Throughout this discussion I use the expression forms of intuition, I and avoid the expression forms of thought, which I used in the first edition of this work; and for using which I have, along with other...
